Portable Skype Ad Remover is a practical and very simple to understand piece of software which is meant to serve one purpose: that of blocking adverts from Skype's interface, enabling you to avoid getting distracted during conversations or accidentally click the banners. Straightforward standalone tool An important aspect of this program resides in the fact that it does not require to be installed prior to working with it, which means it can be used immediately after download - no waiting necessary. In addition, Portable Skype Ad Remover can be run from a USB drive on any compatible system, letting you block adverts with a click, yet leaving no trace on your computer. Effortlessly disable Skype ads For some time now, Skype has introduced various flashy advertisement banners in the interface of its chat windows, which can distract and even annoy you whenever you are exchanging messages with friends or colleagues. In addition, they eat up surface area from the window and also impact your system resources, which can be even more displeasing. Given that chat client does not offer you the possibility of disabling them, you can resort to Portable Skype Ad Remover. This tool is capable of blocking the display of banners, with a single mouse click. However, you may also need to restart Skype for the modifications to become visible. At the same time, the utility also allows you to revert the changes, just as easily, with a press on the same button and a restart of your IM client. A simple means of getting rid of Skype advertisement To conclude, Portable Skype Ad Remover is a highly useful and effective application that can spare you from having to withstand the various banners displayed by Skype; it gets the job done quickly and with little to no effort for you, so you can return to chatting with friends.
